

HFSC Opens Crime Scene House Training Facility to Public

July 12, 2016

The Houston Forensic Science Center welcomes the media to an open house at the Lt. Barry McDermott Crime Scene House Training Facility. This unique facility, located at 1620 Crockett Street, is primarily used to train crime scene investigators and forensic analysts and examiners. In August, HFSC is opening the facility to the public in honor of National Forensic Science Week. Visitors will view a mock crime scene, learn what investigators do to collect evidence, lift fingerprints and get a sneak peek at other forensic disciplines. The media is invited on August 8 to learn about the benefit of having such a specialized training facility in Houston, take pictures and ask questions.

WHEN: August 8, 2016
10 a.m. to 11 a.m.

WHERE: 1620 Crockett Street
Houston, Texas 77007

Parking is available across the street.

RSVP required. Please email media@houstonforensicscience.org to confirm attendance.

CONTACT INFORMATION:

Ramit Plushnick-Masti

Public Information Officer/Director of Communications

media@houstonforensicscience.org

713-929-6768

Follow us on Facebook <http://on.fb.me/1x1zap2>

Follow us on Twitter <https://twitter.com/HoustonForensic>